DR MICHAL BOYD

RN, NP, ND, FAANP, FCNA(NZ)

Nurse Practitioner & Associate Professor

Dr Michal Boyd is an Associate Professor with the School of Nursing and the Department of Geriatric Medicine at the University of Auckland, New Zealand. She practices as a nurse practitioner in long term care, and is co-director of Equinox Health Ltd. Her main research and practice interests are the proactive assessment and care coordination for frail older adults and advanced nursing practice. Dr Boyd is currently national clinical lead for the New Zealand Health Quality and Safety Commission Aged Residential Care workstream. She is also a member of the Te Arai Palliative Care and End of Life Research group and involved in researching new models of primary healthcare for older people.

HER TOPIC WILL INCLUDE:

A practical guide and valuable clinical pearls to improve the ability of teams to work effectively with the complexities of frail older people in aged care. The information in this seminar is based on modules from the Health Quality and Safety Commission's Frailty Care Guides.

- Recognising and treating acute deterioration in older people using a team approach
- How best to help residents in distress: either behaviourally or physically or both
- Practical tips and tricks to improve communication with residents and families
